SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS

Introduction of Public Safety Assessment and Pretrial Program – Criminal Justice Treatment Services (CJTS) Director Bernie Vetrone

CJTS Director Bernie Vetrone provided a PowerPoint (PPT) presentation (copy available in the County Clerk’s Office). Mr. Vetrone reported:

- History: Outagamie County’s (OC) Evidence Based Pre-Trial program went live in June 2019 after four years of working with the National Institute of Corrections (NIC) and WI Dept. of Justice (WDOJ). In 2015, three states were selected by NIC to be part of an evidence based initiative (Indiana, Virginia, and Wisconsin) with six counties from each state. Change targets were identified to be implemented to enhance criminal justice processes at the local level. The one common change was to implement a Pre-Trial Justice program and act as a pilot site for other counties. The six counties in Wisconsin selected were: Chippewa, La Crosse, Marathon, Outagamie, Rock, Waukesha, and Eau Claire (Eau Claire was added later). Two have implemented (Outagamie & La Crosse). A third county, Milwaukee County, started the reform in 2012. Some policies from Milwaukee County were adopted, but some were not scalable to a smaller county. Other counties that are beginning a Pre-Trail Program includes Brown County and Sheboygan County.

- OC Pretrial Justice Committee: Membership included members from Courts, Judges, the D.A.’s Office, County Board Supervisor Patience with CJTS staff coordinating the effort and Deputy Director Beth Robinson going to many of the State meetings as well.

- Program includes: 1) Assessment; release matrix used in court at initial appearance to determine bail and release, and 2) Supervision by a Pretrial Services Agency (3 FT case managers handle caseloads within CJTS). In packets to supervisors was a violation guide, which is an objective-based guide of what goes back to sentencing and what is handled in-house.

- Program goals: Maximize public safety; maximize court appearance; and maximize release 1) for costs, and 2) preserve legal rights in pre-sentencing. The criminal justice system overly relies on cash bonds. If the individual has money, they could provide bond for release (example: Manish Patel posted bond, but fled while some individuals are sitting in jail for less than $200 bail.) Some districts have done away with cash bonds with assessments of flight risk (D.C., New Jersey, California, parts of Kentucky). Courts have previously ruled that individuals should only be held if extreme flight risks and should not be incarcerated unjustly. As Wisconsin law requires bonds, Outagamie County will continue to have posted bonds, but through this program they will be minimized.

- Reasoning for program (short-term): If a low risk offender is held within jail, their likelihood to commit new crimes increases. Days of incarceration/percentage to commit new crimes: 2-3 days, 40 percent; 4-7 days, 50 percent; 8-14 days, 56 percent. Failures to appear increased incrementally as well.

- Reasoning for program (long-term): Days incarcerated/correlations with recidivism: 2-3 days, 17 percent; 4-7 days, 35 percent; 8-14 days, 51 percent. Defendants supervision with Pretrial Services Agency results in defendants being less likely to fail to appear in court. If moderate risk person, you are 38% less likely to appear; if high risk, you are 33% less likely to appear in court.

- Day Report compared to Pretrial Services – In 2005, Day Report Center was started with Family Services contracted to help. The program was successful, but found not to be cost effective (levy impact $220,000; annual capacity 150; court appearance rate 75%). In 2017, CJTS provided Pretrial Services and continued to present (levy impact $320,000; annual capacity 600; court appearance rate 91%).

- Measuring Pretrial Risk
  - Pretrial risk assessment: An objective, statistically-based resource that uses pretrial risk factors to assess a person’s likelihood of pretrial success or failure. A pretrial risk factor is a characteristic that, when present (e.g., criminal history), indicates an increased risk of pretrial failure. The results of a pretrial risk assessment can be used alongside other information to inform the release/detention decision. The assessment is not intended to “drive” the decision but instead, to inform the decision.

  - A comparison with the risk assessments would be the insurance industry, which uses assessments to base premiums.

  - Risk assessment: The tool used was developed by Arnold Foundation and validated by over 500,000 cases. The tool was implemented in Kentucky a couple years ago. Milwaukee has been using it for a year, and Outagamie implemented in early June. There are nine questions, which are based on static information. This assessment is not racially or economically means discriminatory. Staff doesn’t have to be present to interview the defendant.
A Release Conditions Matrix was provided in the PPT, which Court Commissioner Figy is using. The top line of the matrix provides NCA (New Criminal Activity) with the left side providing FTA (Failure to Appear). Levels of risk are then coordinated between the two scores and a decision is made regarding bonds and assessment. In addition to the matrix, the offense is also considered with defendant conditions. Violent offenders are automatically labeled a Category 4.

- Pretrial Supervision/Risk Reduction: Supervision levels tied to assessed risk levels greatly improve pretrial outcomes. Conversely, improper supervision produces poor outcomes and wastes resources. The “risk” principle has four levels: Level 1: No supervision; Level 2: Once per month; Level 3: Every other week; Level 4: Once per week. The levels save staff resources and are directed towards those needing it the most. When staff meets with individuals, it is a robust visit, which focuses on quality and motivational interviewing.

- Outcomes: CJTS is assisting with keeping the jail at stable numbers. A few months ago, 39% of defendants were in pre-conviction (cash bonds); 36% were post-conviction and 25% Other (probation holds, writs to other counties; warrants to other counties). Ideally, more work is needed. Ideally, pre-conviction numbers would be lower than post-conviction numbers. How low that it can be lowered is uncertain as there is always the need to house defendants prior to conviction and some people refuse signature bonds and some people are from other counties and cannot be placed on the program.

- Milwaukee County Results: In 2009, they had 64% cash bonds; in 2012, cash bonds were reduced to 40%, a reduction of 24%. Estimates are that Outagamie County’s implementation will not be as dramatic as law enforcement efforts are better at decisions and the court commissioner decisions are good in Outagamie County. CJTS’ 2020 budgetary goal is a reduction of 15% of cash bonds.

- Since June Implementation: A final slide shows the number of people that have increased into the program since the June implementation. In June, the average was around 75 pre-trial defendants, and the number in August the number has gone up to approximately 150. CJTS estimates the program will get to 175 participants.

During Q&A, CJTS, Bernie Vetrone and his staff were thanked for their work; if pre-trial evaluation data was reviewed to determine impacts to families and the indirect benefits to the program (hard to quantify in this study; has been reviewed in other justice programs); County Board’s position on current State law regarding cash bond (currently no position; Vetrone would be in favor of a change in WI law; may require a constitutional amendment).
