SPECIAL ORDER OF BUSINESS
Corporation Counsel (CC) Joe Guidote - Overview of parliamentary procedure, open meetings law, and the role of administration / county board.

Corporation Counsel Joe Guidote reported handouts were provided that included information on his topics. The Roles and Responsibilities handout was provided by WCA.

CC Guidote reported:

Parliamentary Procedures:

- Legislation - Resolution/ordinances and motions/requests may be made by an individual supervisor or committee to make a decision on county government. Typically, legislation is written in the form of a resolution/ordinance to provide a better understanding of the intent and to provide specificity for open meeting requirements.
- Moving Action to Floor - At meetings, a supervisor will make a motion to adopt the resolution/ordinance and someone seconds. Then the item is up for debate.
- Requests to Speak - Each supervisor may speak twice on the resolution/ordinance, unless there are subsidiary motions (amendments) in which case a supervisor may speak twice on the subsidiary motion. Then, supervisors may speak twice of the main resolution as amended.
- Vote Requirements - Every resolution will have a vote requirement. Most require a majority vote. Exceptions that require more votes includes budget changes and changes to the Table of Organization (2/3 majority of members elect). Veto overrides also require 2/3 vote, which is 24 votes of the 36 supervisors. Sole sourcing vendors for public works (normally, public works are bid and then the lowest responsible bidder would be awarded the project), require 3/4 majority (27 votes). Most common sole source is for the County Highway Department to do work for another county department.
- Reconsideration Motions – A motion to reconsider an action allows that action to be completed quickly. The reason for these motions is that an item passed at a meeting survives to the next meeting. Anyone who voted on the prevailing side could reconsider the action. Often, projects at the Airport require reconsideration in order to proceed with the work. If an action is locked in, the action could not be brought up again and administration can proceed with the requirements of that action.

During Q&A, discussion took place that an individual supervisor can sponsor a resolution. Before a supervisor brings a resolution to the Board, the resolution must first go before a standing committee. If the committee denies it, then the individual supervisor can bring it forward to the Board floor.

Roles:

- Forms - County government has three different forms of government: county executive, county administrator or county administrative coordinator. In Outagamie County (OC), the county executive administers and the county board decides policy.
• Budget - One of the largest county responsibilities is the budget. The county executive prepares a budget and presents it to the board. The County Board as a whole considers the budget and passes it or amends it and then passes it. The executive meets with various departments during budget review. The chair of the committee of jurisdiction is invited to attend. The county executive will review the budget with the HR Director and Finance Director to review position requests and other budgetary items. When all decisions are made administratively, the budget is then printed and forwarded to the county board. The Finance Committee will then review the entire budget and make their proposed amendments.

• Administration/Policy/Negotiations - The county executive also hires administrators and carries out the policy of the county board. Negotiation is viewed as an administrative task. An example includes negotiations for labor contracts. Administration negotiations with the labor union through the HR department. That contract will then be presented to the Legislative/Audit HR Committee and make a recommendation to the county board for final consideration. If the committee or county board rejects the contract, the contract would then return to administration for further negotiation.

• Plans - The county board will also review large plans for approval. Once approved, the county executive is responsible to provide necessary resources (labor and budget) to carry out those plans.

• Judicial Branch - The third branch of county government is the judicial branch. In OC, there are seven circuit judges, who are elected. While they have statutory autonomy, their budget is approved by the county executive and county board.

• Individual Supervisor Role - As individual supervisors, your role is to participate in committees. Committees do all the research and formulate a recommendation to the county board. The county board is the final authority for approval/denial.

• County Staff Communication - County staff are managed by department heads. Due to past issues, supervisor interaction with department heads/individual employees has been managed by requests going to the committee of jurisdiction. The committee will then made those requests known to the county executive.

Open Meetings Law

- Open Meeting Presumption - Staff oversee issues relative to open meetings law. Members were reminded that all meetings are generally presumed to be open.

- Closed Sessions - Statutes allow for several particular areas to be closed. Examples include disciplinary items for public employees, contract negotiations, and consulting with legal counsel for pending legal matters. The language to allow the closed session must be provided on the agenda. The meeting will be opened as an open meeting. When getting into closed session, the chair will read out the notice/statutory reference and a role call will be taken. Additionally, a roll call vote will be taken to go out of closed session. Once in closed session, supervisors may talk freely on the subject. Minutes do not need to be taken. The committee chair can determine who is allowed in closed session. County board members cannot be kept out of closed session (even if you are not a member of the standing committee). Once out of closed session, as a committee member you must understand the purpose of the closed session and keep the information confidential.

- Closed Session Obligation – Supervisors should know the specific topic that was noticed and that should be discussed. Members were encouraged that if they felt the notice was not done properly or items discussed in closed session were not pertinent to the notice, they have an obligation to walk out of that session or could ask that the meeting be stopped.

- Walking quorums – a quorum is a majority of committee or sufficient numbers to determine an action by the committee. A quorum of the committee of 5 is 3 members. Therefore, three members should not be getting together outside of a committee and discuss county business. The public has a right to know what a committee is meeting about. While it could be easy to gather together after a board meeting, supervisors were warned not to gather and discuss business. A walking quorum is when individuals are not meeting physically together, but one member calls a second member who then calls a third. A subset of quorum is a negative quorum. If something requires a super majority (4 out of 5) to move the action to the board, it would only take two members to defeat the action. If the two members talked to defeat the measure, they would be a negative quorum.

Public records law

- Records/Maintenance - Supervisors are subject to maintain their records (generally for a period of 7 years). A record can be paper, social media post, email, or audio recording. If the record pertains to county business, the record must be maintained so that it can produced for an open records request.

- Email Usage – Because of the above, supervisors were encouraged to only utilize their county email for county communication. Losing a record is not an excuse in law for not producing the record. Therefore, it is important to have a real time backup, which is provided by the county for the county emails.

CC Guidote reported that supervisors were free to call on the Corporation Counsel office. Either CC Guidote or Deputy CC Kyle Sargent are well versed in the above topics and will respond quickly to questions.
